

Imagine that you are a bright boy, barely a teenager, living with a somewhat mysterious grandfather, a caring housekeeper, and a friendly dog, Ash. Yet unlike most children, you have recurring dreams of an unknown city, futuristic spaceships, strange symbols and a sweltering, deserted land.

At the age of twelve, Sebastian Quinn, the young hero of this science fiction novel, is ripped from everything he knows and plunged into a phenomenal hidden world amidst the stars, facing uncertain dangers that he could have never imagined.

Uniting with five other children at an advanced academy, he begins an intense training which will test the limits of his strength. These youngsters may lack the experience of fully fledged peacekeepers, but together they learn to trust their skills, their courage and their friendships as a great evil, lurking in the shadows, will change Sebastian's destiny forever.
